The access is achieved by using the student number and password. By default, the “sign in” shows up in Portuguese, so you may switch it to the English option.

To recover your password at SIUPT, you must follow the instructions below, once your student number is provided.

The image displays two screenshots of the SIUPT Academic Platform interface. The top screenshot shows the 'sign in' page with a navigation bar containing 'SIUPT', 'Portals', 'Student', and 'Support'. Below the navigation bar, the text 'sign in' is followed by a downward arrow icon and the instruction 'Enter your student or employee number and your password. Did you forget your student password?'. The form includes a dropdown menu set to 'Student', input fields for 'NUMBER' and 'PASSWORD', and a 'SIGN IN' button. The bottom screenshot shows the 'Reset Password' page. It features a text input field with the placeholder 'student number' and a suffix '@alunos.upt.pt'. Below this, there are three light blue informational boxes: the first states that the student number is required for password recovery and provides the email helpdesk@upt.pt for those who do not know their number; the second states that a personal email address must be on file for recovery, or the user should contact the Helpdesk; the third states that employees should contact the Helpdesk to recover their password. A large blue 'Reset' button is at the bottom.

SIUPT is the students’ support platform used for academic management.

It allows students:

1. to check enrolment achieved by UPT, according to the learning agreement before mobility, at “Student/student information”
2. to find out the rules of assessment of each course (there is always a note about Erasmus): click on the course’s name and find the curricular unit file, made available at “Student/student information”
3. to access the weekly schedules, by bachelor or master, at “Student/class schedules”

Please note that the weekly schedules use to be made available in SIUPT one week before the starting of classes.

The weekly schedules apply to students attending:

- a) classes in Portuguese;
- b) having in class support in English (bachelors in Tourism, Hospitality Management, Information Technology);
- c) classes taught in English within the bachelor in International Relations.

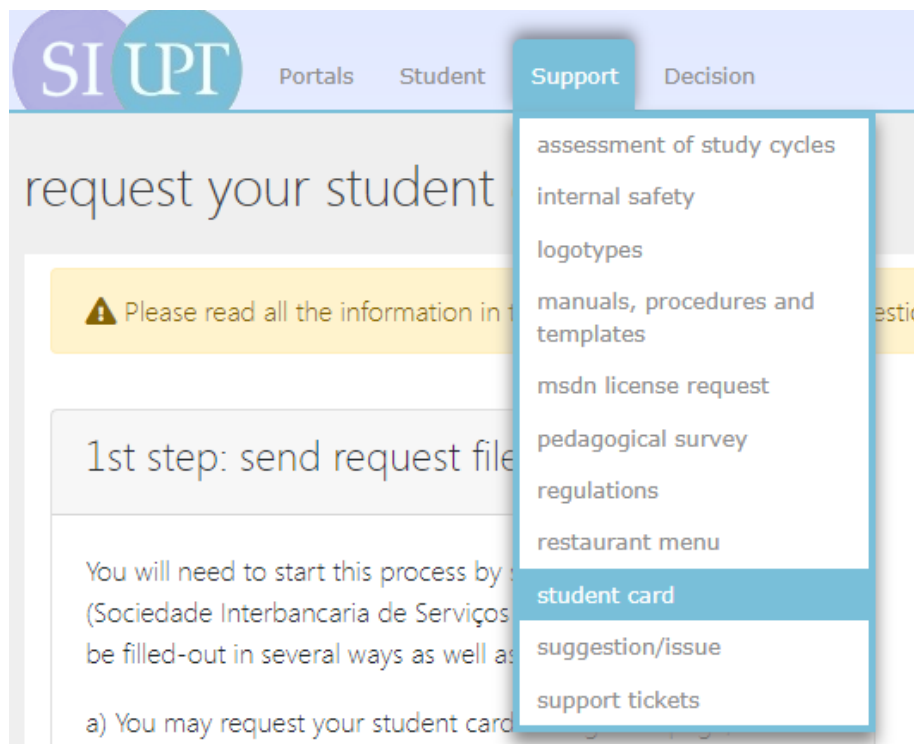

For the other programs' courses, the schedule will be shared by the teacher in each course's Moodle page. Access to Moodle is the same as the one used for accessing to SIUPT academic platform.
